President's Column

Introduction:

Most of the Nineveh plains Areas that were occupied by ISIS since August, 2014 have been liberated in November, 2016 by the Iraqi army with support from the international coalition forces and the local forces including Nineveh Protection Unites (NPU). When we visited the area right after its liberation, we saw the colossal destruction that was caused by ISIS and the military operations to drive them out of the area.

It was obvious that the damage that was caused by ISIS to the infrastructure, Churches, Monasteries and even people houses was a deliberate act to eradicate and uproot the presence of the indigenous people of the area by destroying their history and heritage.

The crimes that were committed by this terrorist organization (ISIS) has been documented by many civil society organizations such as The Assyrian Aid Society-Iraq (AASI) with support from other organizations like the Knights of Columbus and others and because of that; many countries has recognized ISIS crimes against our people as genocide and ethnic cleansing.

The next stage will be crucial in the continuous presence of our people in this area therefore a special attention should be paid to the reconstruction and protection of the towns and villages in Nineveh plains. AASI is inviting all our friends and supporters to double their efforts in a reconstruction campaign for the devastated Nineveh region. In this regard, the AASI has already started a preliminary survey to document all the damages that took place in Nineveh plains and started few small projects in the liberated villages and towns to help bring some sense of normalcy in day to day life. The Village of Telsquf was the beginning point where a group of volunteers from Chaldo-Assyrian youth organization (with help and support from AASI, Iraqi Christian Relief Council and the Assyrian national council of Illinois) began a cleaning and painting campaign for the streets and public places of the village. This activity will continue to cover the northern and southern parts of Nineveh plains (Baghdida, Karmles and Bartela).

At the same time the AASI is continuing its efforts to support our displaced people. A residential camp for the IDP was constructed (Odrana Camp) in Sheyoz, Dohuk that sheltered forty four families. This camp was constructed with help and support from many organizations as Salt foundation, The Lutheran evangelical church of Württemberg, The Assyrian Aid Society in USA, Iraqi Christian Relief Council, International Corporations Institute, Assyrian Aid Society-Canada and The Assyrian Aid Society-Australia. The AASI also continued its support to our own organizations like the Chaldo-Assyrian youth organization.

AT the twenty fifth anniversary of the AASI and because of the continuous humanitarian aid to our people; the AASI was nominated for the Noble peace price in a letter to the price committee from British MP Mr. Edward Leigh who is a member in the British House of Commons.

President's Column

Despite the international and local economic recession and the increased numbers of crises in the world that caused large numbers of people to leave their homes and become refugees in many parts of the world especially the Middle East which caused a substantial amount of decrease in financial support for the AASI, despite all of that, the AASI continued its support for many programs such as the Assyrian Education Program which is getting help from the Assyrian Aid Society-USA, Assyrian Aid Society-Canada, Assyrian Aid Society-Australia and New Zealand, Assyrian National Council in Illinois, Iraqi Christian Relief Council in USA and the Assyrian Evangelical Church in San Jose. The Mobile Clinic which is serving our community in Dohuk province continued too with support from Assyrians without borders Organization in Sweden. Also AASI donated medicines to Saint Joseph medical center in Arbil with support from Christian Aid Organization in Britain. In the reconstruction field; the AASI has implemented many projects in the Assyrian areas to help them stay in their homes and villages, the Dutch "SALT Foundation" and the German Lutheran Evangelical Church played a big role in financing these projects. Besides that, the AASI has supported the Assyrian community in Khabour area with help from the Assyrian National Council of Illinois and the Assyrian Aid Society USA.

It is also necessary to evaluate the activities of the Assyrian Aid Society of America by organizing annually the (Mesopotamian Nights Event), which has been revived to preserve and protect our consciences and folklore, as well as to support our people in the homeland.

The AASI in 2016 participated in the United Nations Meeting of the indigenous people fifteenth forum meeting in New York. Delicate from Canada represented the AASI and in their speech they focused in the dangers that ISIS occupation of Nineveh plains poses on the existence of Assyrians in their historical homeland in Nineveh area.

An invitation was sent to the AASI to attend a town hall meeting in George Town University in Washington DC. Mrs. Mona Malik represented the AASI in the meeting. Also, in September, 2016 the AASI participated in Defense of Middle Eastern Christians forum that took place in Washington DC - USA where creating Nineveh plains province was suggested in the forum.

In Europe; on October 2016 the AASI took part in many meetings with its supporters in Sweden, Switzerland and Holland. And attended the foreign relations committee session of the European Union in Hague where we emphasized the importance of creating new province in Nineveh plains, the return of our people to their homes as soon as possible, starting the construction process and the participation of the indigenous in protecting their own areas.

At the end I would like to thank those who supported our people whether financially or morally, regardless if the support came through our organization or through other organizations because helping and supporting our people is the only way to keep us in our historical home land and finally I would like to thank all our AASI employee who took part in our humanitarian missions to complete our projects throughout the year 2016.
