President's Column

We can call the year 2018, as the year of victory and return to most areas of Nineveh Plain home of the indigenous Assyrians Syriac Chaldeans, where the proportion of returnees to certain areas in the Nineveh Plain, such as Bakhdida, Karmles, Telsqof and Bashiqa were increased, and lower rates to Bartilla.

This has significantly encouraged other IDPs to think of returning, and this is a positive indicator and despite the difficulties and the effects left behind of occupation of ISIS in those areas and the negative subsequent repercussions on the community and the fabric of the Iraqi components in general.

However, the hesitation and delay of return of the displaced people for political and social reasons, which have been preceded by the occupation of ISIS over those areas in previous periods, including Telkief and Mosul. The number of Assyrian families returning to these areas is not a figure that can be considered an achievement after liberation.

As for Batnaya, in addition to the political situation, these areas continue to suffer as a result of the destruction caused by the military operations and the deceleration in reconstruction and lack of necessary funds.

Despite the lack of resources and the short in humanitarian support in general, our Society insisted on continuing to provide more humanitarian services to encourage the people of the Nineveh Plain to return to their historical areas, which included the distribution of food baskets, household cleaning items, stationery for schools, As well as the supplying of medicines and medical supplies, drilling of water boreholes and rehabilitation for some of the damaged houses and homes in the Nineveh Plain, and the distribution of furniture and home needs of returnees to some areas of Nineveh Plain, in addition to providing more disclosures to the supporters, including the USAID, which has already initiated the implementation of the first project with the Assyrian Aid Society-Iraq of distributing the school supplies to more than 25,000 students for kindergartens and primary schools in the Nineveh Plain.

On the other hand, the AAS-Iraq continued to provide as much as possible of support to displaced people in Duhok governorate through the continuation of the Odrana camp of AASI, in sheltering displaced people who have no other shelter, as well as the project of mobile clinic tours that continued to provide medical services.

The AAS-Iraq has not lost sight to the people of Duhok governorate from the various Assyrian villages and towns and their great need for support. Where AASI constructed the irrigation channels in Nahla region and It also continued the supporting of the Assyrian Education to ensure continuity of the process of teaching in the mother tongue that the AASI has always made it one of the annual sections to which it is committed.

As part of its supporting activities to the youth group, the AAS-Iraq continued to support the programs and activities of the Chaldo Assyrian Students and Youth Union. The AASI also worked on organizing capacity-building workshops for youth groups of both genders to raise awareness on their rights as an indigenous people of the country and their right to decent living.

In the field of communication with United Nations organizations, the activities of the Society have been marked by participation in several events in New York of the United Nations Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues UNPFII. We also participated actively in the work of the Permanent Forum on Human Rights, the Experts Mechanism on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (EMRIP), as we succeeded in delivering speeches that focused on the rights and issues of our people in the country, especially the file of lands.

Last year also witnessed a remarkable cooperation with the World Evangelical Alliance at the United Nations.

From our participation and activities for 2018 was the participation of our Society within the delegation of Iraq in the activities of the Iraq Reconstruction Conference in Kuwait in February.

As well as participating in the conference in Bartilla in the Nineveh Plain and the signing the document of peaceful coexistence in the Nineveh Plain.

One of our important contributions was to meet an invitation from the US State Department to participate in the first Ministerial Conference on Religious Freedom organized by the US State Department in Washington in July 2018.

For the national participation, we had the privilege of delivering an extended speech at the annual conference of the Assyrian Confederation of Europe in October 2019.

All that our society achieved was an outcome of the continuous work by hundreds of supporters around the world who aim to strengthen our presence as an indigenous people in Iraq, as well as the good and distinguished relations with our partners who have provided and continue to provide support to ensure the continuation of building and reconstruction and conquering the will of evil, which planted hatred in the past years, and the efforts and support of the good people around the world we were able to move forward and contribute significantly in laying the smile on the faces of children.

We would like to extend our thanks to all those who contributed to the achievement of what we have presented over the past year, and their commitment to continue to provide the best in the future.

Sincerely,

Ashur Sargon Eskrya
